

Tasks and responsibilities of the Group project

Benjamin was responsible for the literature review on parametric insurance, specifically focusing on the structure of parametric weather insurance offered by Wetterheld and Baloise. He researched the concept and outlined the key aspects of this insurance model, then wrote the corresponding section of the paper.

Kai handled the implementation of the project through a smart contract, taking charge of the programming aspects. He developed the necessary code and wrote the related section of the paper, detailing the technical implementation and integration of the smart contract into the solution.
